

1 POINTS, LINES, PLANES, AND ANGLES

As ancient people studied the heavens, they saw and named many patterns of points, lines, and angles formed by the stars. Although modern astronomers use sophisticated observatories and equipment, they still base their calculations on geometric principles that have been known for many centuries.

